Local Canine Behavior Consultant Earns Certification As Certified Behavior Consultant Canine®

CBCC now available to local dog owners

Raleigh, NC (December 30, 2011)- Local canine behavior consultant, Angel M. Wasserman, CBCC-KA of Paws in Training of Raleigh, NC has earned certification through the Certification Council for Professional Dog Trainers® (CCPDT). Angel now joins nearly 60 certificants worldwide.

Until the creation of the Certification Council for Professional Dog Trainers in 2001, there was no true certification process for canine professionals. Many schools teach dog trainers and offer certifications for their specific programs. These certificates, therefore, reflect the teachings and quality of a specific school. Other organizations offer take-home tests for “certification”. These canine professionals are not monitored to ensure they are completing the test without any assistance or collaboration, nor is the testing process standardized.

This unprecedented process was originally implemented by the Association of Pet Dog Trainers (APDT), the largest association of dog trainers in the world, founded by noted veterinarian, behaviorist and author, Dr. Ian Dunbar. A task force of approximately 20 internationally known dog training professionals and behaviorists worked for three years to research and develop the first comprehensive examination. Professional Testing Corporation was hired to ensure the process met professional testing standards. APDT then created a separate, independent council- The Certification Council for Professional Dog Trainers- to manage the accreditation and pursue future development.

Candidates who pass the exam earn the title Certified Behavior Consultant Canine and may use the designation CBCC after their names. All certified canine behavior consultants must earn continuing education credits to maintain their designations or take the exam again in five years.
